About the Author

Eric v.d. Luft received his A.B. magna cum laude in philosophy and religion from Bowdoin College in 1974, his M.A. and Ph.D. in philosophy from Bryn Mawr College in 1977 and 1985, and his M.L.S. from Syracuse University in 1993. Both his master's thesis and his doctoral dissertation were on Hegel's philosophy of religion. He taught at the Humanistic Studies Center in the University College of Syracuse University from 1986 until 2004, and since 1987 he has been Curator of Historical Collections in the Health Sciences Library of SUNY Upstate Medical University. He formerly taught philosophy at Villanova University and was Historical Collections Assistant at the College of Physicians of Philadelphia. He has held Surdna, Whiting, Wood, and U.S. Department of Education Fellowships and is listed in Who's Who in America and Who's Who in the World. Most of his approximately 485 publications are encyclopedia articles, but also include about thirty peer-reviewed articles in professional journals and anthologies. Besides philosophy, among the topics of his writing are librarianship, clinical medicine, history of medicine, history of science, military history, cultural history, intellectual history, popular culture, medieval Iceland, and contract bridge.
